JUST A MEMORY JOGGER

We have been presenting the points of merit of an opportunity for investment, which we feel should appeal to you, if you have a little spare money which you want to have busy making a steady income and by placed as to practically eliminate the possibility of loss.

No wonder many have desired the money in banks, but wait without return until something appears that is really secure before investing. Making it without return or paying commission for placing it at interest and then without returns waiting again for long periods, is very discouraging.

These assets, the result of nine years of successful business, amounted last December to approximately nine hundred thousand dollars, consisting of irrigated lands in the San Luis Valley, notes and mortgages, city property, stocks and other investments.

The policy of increasing the capital stock, making the cash commensurate with the needs of the business, was decided on. It was deemed wise to take some partners and share with them in the profits of the business.

There is no more solid and attractive opportunity being offered now for your savings than this.

PARTY OR PEOPLE

BY a majority vote of the Republican State Committee it is decreed that Colorado endorse the Taft administration and desires its continuance for another four years; furthermore, that Colorado does not want a presidential primary which would enable the Republican voters to express their preference as to presidential candidates, and that the voters are content to leave the decision as to their preference to such delegates as may be selected by the machine-controlled delegates to the state convention. This means that next July a delegation will go to the Chicago Convention instructed to cast the vote of Colorado for William H. Taft as the presidential nominee of the Republican party.

This infamous action is the perfectly natural result of the conference of a body about one-third of whom are Federal officeholders and therefore directly dependent on the Taft machine for their bread and butter. This aggregation of political hangers-on—"hap-suckers," to descend to the vernacular—got together in Denver and agreed that their sole hope of remaining on the payroll was to boost hard for the great dispenser of patronage. Their influence was strong enough to put through the resolution, by a vote of 10 to 1, endorsing the Taft administration. These resolutions commend the present executive for "his vigorous enforcement of the laws of the country," declare that he has "richly earned at the hands of the party a re-nomination for the great office he now fills so admirably," and "heartily indorse his re-nomination and predicts his re-election by an overwhelming popular and electoral vote."

Here we have an exemplification of the steam roller brought up to date. The Republican committee of Colorado affects to represent the Republican party. But its vote of 10 to 1 for Taft is an absolute reversal of the opinion of the Republican voters of this state, for everybody who possesses the slightest familiarity with political conditions in Colorado knows that the people are against Taft fully 10 to 1.

FAIRNESS OF PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARIES.

The progressive Republicans have been fair and impartial in their attitude. Although they believe that the Republican voters strongly favor a progressive candidate for the presidency, they have been willing, even anxious, to submit the question to a vote of the people. They have demanded that presidential primaries be held at which every voter could register his preference, whether for Taft, Roosevelt, La Follette, or any other avowed candidate. They have been content to rest their case with the people. But of course the gangsters, controlled from machine headquarters in Denver and from the Postoffice Department in Washington, were afraid to give the people a chance. They knew, just as everybody, including His Excellency himself, knows, that if the dear people of this country ever get a whack at William H. Taft they will cut off his aspirations without ceremony. Hence, the refusal of the State Committee to permit presidential primaries. From the viewpoint of the Federal officeholders and the professional politicians, it is an extremely dangerous thing to give the plain, untutored citizen a chance to vote on any subject affecting his interest.

Only one hope is left. It is still within the power of the County Central Committees to call presidential primaries in their respective counties. Already this has been done in Mesa and Delta counties, and the Republicans there will soon have a chance to say at the polls whether they want William H. Taft or another man to be the nominee of the Republican party for the presidency. The example of these western counties may well be followed by others in Colorado.

We hope that the Republican Committee of El Paso county has enough nerve and honesty to issue a call for presidential primaries. If not, we hope to be able to explain to the people the reasons for its refusal. The thing is absolutely just, absolutely honest, and it is demanded by every-citizen who possesses the most elemental sense of fairness. If the people are competent to say by their votes who shall be President of the United States it follows that they are also intelligent enough to say who shall be the nominee of their party for the presidency.

Colorado has been bound, gagged and hog-tied so long that it is getting restive. On every side—in Kansas and Iowa on the east, in the Pacific Coast states on the west—its people have the example of successful rebellion against organized political graft and greed. For many years sporadic efforts have been made to place Colorado in line with its sister states as a thoroughly wide-awake commonwealth, knowing and demanding its own rights, but these efforts have been futile chiefly because of the want of proper leadership.

THE TURN OF THE TIDE.

But the turning point has been reached. Today there are thousands of Republicans in open rebellion against the constituted leadership of their party in Colorado. They have striven to work within their party and have hoped, almost against hope, that conditions might obtain which would enable them to keep their places in the organization. But again and again they have seen every worthy ideal shattered; they have seen the party machinery made subservient to organization greed—seen the whole structure converted into an instrument for the acquirement of office without respect to principle.

Heretofore they have complained, but today they are in a state of insurrection. They believe firmly that they owe no obligation to such corporation bosses as Simon Guggenheim and his salaried lieutenants and that their only chance of escape from the domination of this crew is through open rebellion. And if anybody thinks that there won't be a rebellion, let him adjust his spectacles and watch the course of events in Colorado from this date till the first Tuesday in November. There is going to be some talk insubordinating between now and then, and our humble prediction is that it will result in a wall-to-the-Republican-gang-of-Colorado compared with which the wall-to-the two and four years ago will be mere slaps on the wrist.

We do not believe that as few as 10 per cent of the Republican voters of Colorado want Taft to have another term in the presidency. We do not believe that a much larger percentage of them will vote for him if he is nominated. At any rate, we hope they won't. We hope instead that the Democrats will nominate Woodrow Wilson and that Colorado, in common with the whole country, will elect him President—which would be a thousand times better for the country than another four years of Taft. But most of all we hope that the Republican Convention in Chicago next June will have the good sense to nominate Roosevelt. In that event the next administration will be Republican, and it will be presided over by a man who, whatever his faults may be, knows his own mind and has the courage to stand up and fight for what he wants—which is a good deal more than can be said for the erstwhile heir apparent.

OPEN-PARLIAMENT

VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA TO LOUISIANA.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
I heartily agree with you in regard to the formation of a southern society in the springs. I do not think there is such an organization in the city composed of people from any one southern state, from the fact, as I believe, that the south is such a fine place that there are not a sufficient number of people from any one southern state residing in the Springs to form a state society, but I believe there are enough people from the south living in this city to form a "Southern society," and I should like very much to see such an organization exist.

Let us hear from others of the "sunny south" who have adopted Colorado Springs as their future residence.

Let's organize and get acquainted.
E. W. RAYLE,
(North Carolina.)
Colorado Springs, Feb. 12.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
When I read in the Open Parliament in Sunday's Gazette, Louisiana's wish to become acquainted with others from Dixie land, it truly expressed my own heart's desire. A stranger I am longing for the society of my own people who come to think and talk of the dear old home so far away, of happy days we may know no more.

May I hope to hear from you and with you meet those of the sunny south?

SEVERIDGE.
To the Editor of The Gazette:
Everybody of every phase of political belief ought to read Hon. Albert J. Beveridge's speech at the Lincoln day gathering at Denver yesterday. Every word uttered is good, progressive, honest, clear, doctrine, good Jeffersonian Democratic doctrine, good industrial doctrine, and good practical doctrine for every patriotic citizen to live by; politically, morally and socially.

Mr. Beveridge's eloquent words, to my mind, prove that he has no peer in true statesmanship. He is worthy of being the next president of the United States. If there should be a "dark horse" in the next Republican national convention, Albert J. Beveridge should receive honest consideration. I believe, outside of Roosevelt, that he would stand a splendid chance of election. As a "man of the hour" combined with statesmanship, I think he outranks the best of them.

I have great faith in Champ Clark and Woodrow Wilson, but after reading that speech, feel that the country would certainly be safe with Mr. Beveridge in the presidential chair.

PROGRESSIVE.

FROM OTHER PENS.

GRATITUDE.
From the Milwaukee Sentinel:
Food experts tell us that the high cost of living helps to prevent indigestion. We praise them for the interesting article in the digest of St. Mark's thank Allah that they are not in danger of drowning.

THE WILEY REPORT.
From the Washington Star:
The report of the house committee on the matter of the Wiley's employment of Dr. Huxley as part of the investigation of the food and drug frauds, and fortunately covers a broad ground of consistent conditions in the department of agriculture to afford the basis for readjustments to insure a more satisfactory enforcement of the law. Contrary to public expectation, the committee engineers in no severe criticism, although it declares that the administration of the pure food law has not been satisfactory and that the reference should not be continued as at present, the creature of an executive order only.

The country demands that the statutes enacted for the protection from food and drug frauds shall be applied strictly and justly, to prevent the making of the poisoning of consumers. It has patience with technicalities or jealousy in the department of agriculture, and it expects to see an organization effected, either by administrative changes or by law, that will insure a systematic, harmonious and rational application of the regulations regardless of personalities or influences. The thought that Dr. Wiley's removal from office was sought by those interested in securing a milder policy of food and drug fraud prosecution has instantly productive of deep and bitter resentment for the chief chemist of the department has come to be regarded as a public protest. Rightly or wrongly, the complications in the office were attributed to malign influences. The committee finds, however, no evidence of such forces at work.

Sunflower Philosophy

The orators rise up and down, and often blow into our town to talk on Vital Themes; they give us theories new and old, Napoleonic plans unfold, and hand us crazy dreams. I'd like to hear one man of power talk plain horse sense for half an hour and bid his hearers rise and go to work like honest lads and learn to save their hard-earned cash—such talk as that is wise. Bill Wax draws fifteen bones a week and says the government's a freak since he does not get more; he thinks it is the nation's crime that he has such a beastly time to keep wolves from his door. And when he gets his weekly pay he blows the most of it away; his salary has wings; he buys the dearest kind of meat, all sorts of flossy things to eat, instead of simpler things. He spends his money like a child, and then he listens to some spellbinder lead out suits, assure him he's poor because the country needs some better laws, and all that sort of stuff. Ten thousand talkaths in this land, and never one of them will stand before an audience and argue that a man should jerk his jacket off and get to work and exercise horse sense.

THE DAILY CHIT-CHAT

"Please write something," urges a neighbor of mine, about the woman who asks you to do an errand for her when you are going shopping and forgets to give you the wherewithal."

"Oh, no, I don't mean that she forgets it permanently. She gives it to you when you get back maybe, or a day or two later, but she doesn't give it to you when she gives you the commission."

"Maybe, what she asks you to get costs three or four dollars, and, of course, you wouldn't dream of asking for the money, but suppose your husband gave you just five dollars that morning to do a few errands in the errand. You see that several of those little errands will have to go undone if you subtract three or four from five."

Have you also met the lady? I suspect you have, for she is a very common or garden variety of—well, "sponge" seems to me about the best word for her.

She is notably present in the summer colonies where she is perpetually asking the word of the girl who goes back and forth to town every day, to get her this or that little thing.

I know one working girl who spent the summer about 30 miles from the city, and being one of the few to go back and forth every day, was often loaded down with bundles for these folks. Her financial experiences were much the same as my neighbor's, and being a girl, naturally dependent on her own earnings, there were actually several occasions just before my day, when commissions like these so depleted her pocketbook, that she had to go without her luncheon.

I should think that anyone who was accepting such a gift of time and strength for the summer would take pretty good care not to add a financial inconvenience to an obligation sufficiently heavy.

For that very frequent person who can always remember your face perfectly, but simply can't recall your name, and whose sad case was discussed in these columns a while ago, a kind reader has sent in this suggestion:

"Write each new name which you wish to remember on a card; spelling it out letter by letter as you do so. Long afterwards, when trying to recall the name, cut from your subconscious storehouse comes the card into your mental vision, each letter appearing plainly before you." Try it!

I wonder how many people are unconscious Sunshiners?
You think that wonder needs translating? I suspect it does.

To be a Sunshiner means to belong to the Sunshine society. The Sunshine society is an international organization, whose one purpose is to bring sunshine into lives that lack it. And not only to the lives of poor folks, but to lonely people, old people, shut-ins, in fact, to all shadow-lives, whatever their rank or station.

What I meant by being an unconscious member, was unconsciously paying the dues of this society. For this society demands of its members a very unique toll—simply this—one kind act a day.

As an interesting experiment, suppose you look back over the past week and tell yourself whether it has qualified you to belong to the Sunshine society.

Or would you find the dues too exacting?
Ruth Carson

The Great Conflict

A Half Century Ago Today

FEBRUARY 14, 1863

Earl Russell, answering a question by the Earl of Stanhope in the British house of lords concerning the blockading of the entrance to Charleston harbor by the sinking of the Confederate Alabama, expressed the complacency of England in the matter. The Alabama would have been protested against the permanent destruction of any harbor. Russell returned to Stanhope's specific complaint, but the American government had sunk the Alabama as a war measure, and the destruction would be removed as soon as peace was established. There had been a hope in some quarters that the Alabama would become the basis of another international misunderstanding.

Edwin M. Stanton, secretary of war for the United States, issued an order releasing all political prisoners held in confinement by the Federal government, on condition that they would not take part in or abet the armed rebellion against the Federal authority or in any way attempt to influence the government. President Lincoln granted an amnesty to all such persons for past offenses, included in the number affected were those taken on vessels that had attempted to run the blockade.

General Lander, of the Union army, made a reconnaissance in force and broke up a Confederate camp at Blooming Gap. Vol. Colonel Carroll, with some Ohio volunteers, made a reconnaissance to Uagers store, in Virginia. General Dunning captured a herd of beef cattle from a band of guerrillas at New Creek Va. Hamilton Fish and Bishop Ames, who had been commissioned to visit the Union prisoners in southern prisons, returned to Washington. They had been refused permission to visit the prisoners for military reasons, but the Confederate government had negotiated with them for a general exchange, which was brought about.

Three Confederate rife schooners and one sloop were destroyed in Bulls Bay, S. C. by Union soldiers.

BREAKING INTO GOOD SOCIETY

Big Dictionary. Well Read, May Get Men Into Company of Their Betters

From the Boston Transcript:
The old lady who after reading Dr. Johnson's dictionary from title page to colophon found it a very interesting book, but lacking in continuity and connection, stated the character of dictionaries in general. Still she was doubtless wiser at the finish than at the start, and in most cases a similar course of reading would produce a like result. To a rather undiscerning people appropriate their vocabularies from the speech of others or from desultory reading. This is a rather haphazard way of acquiring the proper methods or terms of expression, to say nothing of the formation of style.

It is dangerous unless carefully balanced and steered by authority. The dictionary is not only a very interesting book, but next to the Bible it should be the one in the library most frequently consulted. Like the Bible, it is usually the one that receives the least attention. In these days, when modern teaching methods turn out so many poor spellers, it is no doubt, in many frequent reference for the correction of orthographical deficiencies, but that is only one and the slightest of its functions. It belittles its dignity to make it take the place of the old spelling book. Many times of learning have been explored and exploited to furnish the information that it has to give.

How grudgingly some words are admitted into good verbal society. But if they possess inherent usefulness they will in good time win their way. Take the verb "to swipe," for instance. It has had an unquestioned place and an accepted meaning for a long time, but only the very latest editions recognize its most recent and best application, and that apologetically by following it with "plang" in brackets. Yet there is perhaps no other word in the language that seems to so perfectly describe theft by snatching and sneaking. Ten years hence the "plang" and the brackets will disappear. In the class due to slovenliness is "replica." It means the exact reproduction by an artist or artisan of a piece of work which he has produced before.

VOLCANIC ISLAND OF TRINIDAD

Robert Anderson in Science.

The daily press recently reported that a new island had been thrown up near the coast of Trinidad, with accompanying fire and explosions. This report and the statement appearing in the most recent issue of the Trinidad volcanic place that the eruption was volcanic in character, the eruption of Trinidad is a volcanic island forming part of the same chain as Martinique, St. Vincent and others of the Windward Islands. There is, however, no true volcanic activity in Trinidad, and no volcanic forms either recent or ancient are known there. The island is formed of highly folded sedimentary and metamorphic strata, and is more properly to be considered as a portion of the South American land mass. The recent eruption near its south coast was due to the sudden escape of a large quantity of gas from the strata that form the submerged coastal plateau, with the consequent ejection of the mud and other materials which had hitherto confined the pressure.

Proportions of this type on a small scale are constantly going on in Southern Trinidad, forming the many mud cones and craters to be seen there, and occasionally large outbursts such as this latest one occur. In all cases the force from the gas-bearing muds and clayey strata, bringing with it the sediment and daily water derived from these beds.

The volunteer firemen of the city held a meeting and drew up a memorial to be presented to the city council asking that the fees for hauling hose cart of fires be increased. The only means of getting the apparatus to fires at this time was by hand or by hitching them to vehicles. The fees, which had been fixed at the remuneration for the drivers, had been in existence for many years and were not considered adequate owing to the increased distances the carts had to be hauled, due to the growth of the town.

"THE GIRL FROM RECTOR'S"

SPECIAL MATINEE SATURDAY
Theatergoers are anticipating with a remarkable show of interest the forthcoming production in this city of "The Girl From Rector's," which ran over 300 nights at Weber's Music Hall, New York. All box office records were broken during the engagement and the run might have continued indefinitely were it not for the necessity of filling for in the matter of fun-producing shows. It is a play for those who desire a hearty laugh at a good picture of the ridiculous side of life. Replete with comical situations and astounding revelations it kept the audience in a state of amused expectancy and made them laugh all the time.

"The Girl From Rector's" as a comedy, is a clever show and well worth seeing. The same admirable company will present it. The comedy

MAY ROBSON COMING IN A NEW PLAY

"A Night Out" is the name of May Robson's new comedy of complications and continuous humor in which she will appear at the Opera House, Wednesday, February 21.
"A Night Out" is the kind of a play that the theatergoers call uproariously funny. The dialogue and situations are equal to the farcical element in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt out-of-town contracts that had been made, and it is being received with the same amount of enthusiasm that it was received in New York.

One of the criticisms we quote: "Charlotte N. C. News, Jan. 3, 1911. Edited by Bruce Q. Nabers.
"The Girl From Rector's—a good laugh."

is one that will drive dull care and make its auditors forget all earthly troubles and enjoy a good laugh.
Seats go on sale at the box office tomorrow for the engagement at the Opera House, Saturday, matinee and night, February 17.
Matinee prices, 25 and 50 cents; evening, 50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.50.
Saturday's matinee will be the first time this season that "The Girl From Rector's" will be seen at popular prices.

Mary's comedy made famous by the superior ability of May Robson, whose distinguished success was won by her creation of original character roles, and she stands alone among the pretty women of the stage. To make her features with grease paint, powder and play wigs. She is quite content to win recognition by her art in the impersonation of character studies even in assumed ugliness.
"A Night Out" offers a greater scope for the development of her ability in depicting the peculiar old lady. The view of the comedy dramatist in the narrative of the play, a visit to a famous restaurant in New York. The loss of a valuable jewel and the arrival of the police, form the incident which is not portrayed, only simply spoken of, but leading to complications. Her military influence figures in the act of chastity. It is amplified with retarding the movement of the action which is covered up by the fact, as it unfolds the narrative, and May Robson, "Grandma" will no doubt add another page in her book of brilliant

"A Night Out" is supported by an excellent company, including Jack Morris, Paul Decker, John Rowe, Sam S. Odey, G. Hall, C. Garand, Faye Cudick, Lottie Blake, Edith Conrad, Margaret Boland and Lou Rand.
Seats ready Monday, February 12.
SPROUT, WASHINGTON
BIRTHDAY MATINEE

George Sidney, in the furiously funny musical comedy, "My I V" will shortly be "in our midst." This play is beyond a doubt the best lar of its kind on the road. During the many weeks of its tour last season it played to a succession of crowded houses, and requests for return dates were so many that the management is considering sending out a number of two company. The original comedy and production will be seen here Thursday, February 22 (Washington's birthday), matinee and night.

VALENTINE FEATURE AT "MAJESTIC TODAY"

Thousands upon thousands of people have enjoyed the special feature films which the Majestic has been offering recently—the last of them Cinderella—and today other thousands will undoubtedly take advantage of the presentation of one of the finest dramatic films in existence. "She" tells the story of the famous novel of that name by Rider Haggard.
Everyone who has read at all is familiar with this powerful story, to those who are not it may be said that it is a page of life of absorbing interest and unflinching fascination. It will be shown in two reels—a novel and a drama—combined for only 3 cents—and it is especially appropriate for St. Valentine's day. In addition there will be two other of the highest class reels which are proving so popular at the Majestic.
If you have not yet acquired the Majestic habit today is a good time to begin. Remember, the cost is only 3 cents and stay as long as you like.

THE LYRIC THEATER TO PUT ON ADDED ATTRACTION AT 5 AND 10 CENTS

While it is true the picture theaters are very popular still there seems to be a demand for something a little different in the amusement line—and from what may be heard on every hand, it looks as though the Lyric idea of adding "special features" to their already good picture program, will become as popular here as in the larger cities. The pictures are first, but added features by professional entertainers are always pleasing and at this time will be appreciated. These programs will be changed twice a week (Monday and Thursday) and will be continuous from 2 to 10 and from 10 to 12. In 10c and 12c in any time until 10 or 12 and see a first show, and 10c to matinee, any seat in the house, evening performance 10 cents nothing reserved, the early and secure a good seat.

"SHE" AT THE MAJESTIC TODAY

Here is the wonder subject you have been waiting for. "She" will astound and stun you with its startling effects and amazing mystery situations.
Reproduced from H. Rider Haggard's story of the same name, a book more widely read than that of any modern fiction author, "She" is more than a million readers throughout the civilized world and thus Photoplay will be seen by more than double the readers. It is a wonder picture, amazing, delightful to the eye and reproduced with a faithfulness of detail that is marvelous. No one young or old, should fail to see this feature; remember it is here only for one day, Wednesday, February 14, Valentine day, the day of love and such wonderful love as displayed by "She" will surely be appreciated by both young and old. So don't miss it.
